LIFE FOR LIFE.

That Has Been the Law's Stern Mandate.

THE "ELECTROCUTION" MUDDLE.

Its Outcome May Be the Abolition of Capital Punishment as the Penalty for Murder—The Chances of the Assassins to Go Free.

Is the death penalty "played out?"

It would seem so, so far as the state of New York is concerned. At any rate the legal battle over the substitution of electricity for the rope has reached a stage where a compromise proposal to abolish capital punishment altogether is receiving serious consideration by the members of the legislature.

At present, however, the situation is perplexing and the only people who view it with complacency are the eight men in New York state now under sentence of death. If Kemmler wins his final battle before the supreme court, it is asserted that all these men—messieurs the assassins, the French would call them—must be set at liberty under the constitutional provision that no man shall twice be put in jeopardy of his life for the same offense.

This proposition, of course, is disputed, and probably will not be settled without extended controversy, provided always that Kemmler comes out of the fight victorious. Meanwhile, however, the attempt to abolish the death penalty is at least interesting and worthy of note.

Electrocution—that is generally accepted at present as the correct term for execution by electricity—has had a rather checkered career, and has yet not become much more than it was fifteen years ago—an idea. It was in 1875 that Dr. A. P. Southwick, of Buffalo, conceived the plan of substituting the wire for the gallows. He regarded the legal taking of human life as a necessary evil, a somber adjunct to the demands of Nineteenth century civilization. But, he reasoned, if a man has forfeited existence because of crime, there is no excuse for sending him to eternity by a barbarous and cruel method. He decided that a properly directed electric current would produce instant and painless dissolution, and satisfy the law's demands without subjecting the criminal to any undue mental or physical agony. Once possessed of this belief he began an agitation that induced Governor Hill in 1885, soon after his inauguration, to send the following message to the assembly:

"The present mode of executing criminals by hanging has come down to us from the dark ages, and it may well be questioned whether the science of the present day cannot provide a means for taking the lives of such as are condemned to die in a less barbarous manner. I commend the suggestion to the members of the legislature."

As a result a commission on execution was appointed, composed of Alfred P. Southwick, of Buffalo; Elbridge T. Gerry, of New York, and Matthew Hall, of Albany. These gentlemen went exhaustively into the history of capital punishment. They sought information alike from books and men. They talked with scientists, experts and even a hangman. On Jan. 17, 1888, they submitted their report. They stated that they found five forms of execution in vogue. The guillotine was used by ten governments, the sword by nineteen, the gallows by three, the musket by two and the ax by one. They saw no merits in any of these instruments of death, and unanimously recommended the adoption of the electric current. With this report as a basis for action the legislature framed and passed the bill now on the statute books. It received the signature of the governor June 4, 1888, and went into effect Jan. 1, 1890. It was, as appears from the above statement, a measure that received life and being chiefly through the exertions of Dr. Southwick and Governor Hill. Its provisions are too well known to need repetition here, but it is well to add that it was created in the interests of humanity and mercy.

GOVERNOR DAVID B. HILL.

But when the brutish Kemmler received sentence under the new law for killing a woman, the method by which he was adjudged to suffer death began to be assailed with criticism. Men of whom the assassin never heard took up his cause and have fought step by step in his behalf, until now the highest tribunal in the United States is to be called on for a final decision.

Right here is the point where a general proposition of law may interfere with the individual administration of justice. When the new law was enacted the old one was abolished. The criminals cannot be hanged, and the possible dilemma presents puzzling phases.

Out of it may come, as indicated before, an entirely new order of things—the abolition of capital punishment.

Rheumatism,

BEING due to the presence of uric acid in the blood, is most effectually cured by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Be sure you get Ayer's and no other, and take it till the poisonous acid is thoroughly expelled from the system. We challenge attention to this testimony:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint, after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make a trial of this medicine, and took it regularly for eight months, and am pleased to state that it has effected a complete cure. I have since had no return of the disease."—Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th st., New York.

"One year ago I was taken ill with inflammatory rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced using Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."—Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE, with its varied and excellent contents, is a library in itself.

It was indeed a happy thought to print an entire novel in each number.

Not a short novelette, but a long story such as you are used to get in book form and pay from one dollar to one dollar and a half for.

Not only that, but with each number you get an abundance of other contributions, which gives you a good magazine besides the novel.

The ringing blows which have been struck on the gateway of popular favor, have resounded throughout the entire land, and to-day Lippincott's Magazine stands on the front rank of monthly publications, and is the most widely-read-and-talked-of publication of its kind in the world. A BARGAIN BY LETTER.

HOW A CONTRACT MAY BE MADE BY CORRESPONDENCE.

Conditions of Offer and Acceptance, When Each May Be Withdrawn—Medium by Which Acceptance Should Be Sent to Bind Party Making the Offer.

When a contract is made by letter or telegraph the question occurs, at what time or by what act is the contract completed?

The law in this country may be summarized thus: If A writes to B proposing to him a contract, the proposition remains open until it reaches B and for such time afterwards as would give B a reasonable opportunity of accepting the proposition, unless before B accepts A withdraws the offer by a subsequent letter or by telegraph. The offer may be withdrawn by A at any time before acceptance, or may be withdrawn before the proposition reaches B. For example, if the proposition was sent to B by mail, a telegram revoking the offer which reached B before the letter would prevent B from holding A by an acceptance after receipt of the letter.

It is not, however, withdrawn until a notice of withdrawal reaches B. This is the important point. Thus if A in Boston writes to B in New Orleans, offering a certain price for a hundred bales of cotton and the next day alters his mind and writes to B withdrawing his offer, if the first letter reaches B before the second, although after the second was written and mailed, B has a right to accept the offer before he gets the letter withdrawing it, and, by his acceptance, binds A; but if B delays his acceptance until the second letter reaches him the offer is then effectually withdrawn.

It may likewise be withdrawn by a telegram which reaches B before he has accepted the offer; but if a telegram or letter revoking the offer for any reason fails to reach B his acceptance will bind A although made after the time when in due course the letter or telegram revoking the order should have reached him. The principle underlying this rule of course is that A selects his means of communication, and if it fails him he must of course be responsible.

It is a sufficient acceptance on the part of B if he writes to A declaring his acceptance and puts his letter into the postoffice, if the offer was by mail; or if he delivers to the telegraph company a message declaring his acceptance, if the offer reached him by telegraph, and the acceptance in either case is binding upon A, although the letter or telegram may fail to reach him. The acceptance is complete by depositing the letter in the postoffice or the message at the telegraph office.

But if the offer be by mail and the answer by telegraph, or vice versa, the contract is not complete until B's acceptance reaches A. Applying the rule that he who selects his means of communication vouches for it, it would follow that if the acceptance sent by telegraph of an offer which came by mail failed to reach A, the latter would not be bound by the acceptance.

The Power of Example.

At the conclusion of a nuisance case the judge summed up, enlarging at portentous length on a definition of the offense and the various elements that were required in proof of it, until the jury became thoroughly tired of listening to him. When he had concluded he said:

"I will retire while you are deliberating on your verdict, which requires much consideration; but I hope you understand the various points I have submitted to you."

"Oh, yes, my lord," said the foreman; "we are all agreed that we never knew before what a nuisance was until we heard your lordship's summing up."—Solicitor's Journal.

An Uncertain Description.

We commend to conveyancers the following specimen of legal acumen copied from the records in the office of the auditor of Clarke county, Washington. In a conveyance of land is embodied a bill of sale of some live stock, and the description of the two kinds of property is rather droll. The following is copied verbatim from the records:

"Also that certain lot of land on the Columbia bottom, bounded by land owned by Alexander and others. Also a white bull and twelve hogs west of the meridian line."—Green Bag.

"Failure" and "Suspension."

"Failure" in a business sense means permanent inability to meet one's engagements. "Suspension" is a temporary inability to pay liabilities as they become due. A failure is always a suspension, but a suspension may not be a failure. In ordinary speech, however, a temporary delay in payments by a solvent firm owing to a financial crisis in the money market or to some sudden and unexpected embarrassment is called a suspension. Absolute bankruptcy or insolvency is called a failure.

A Court Room Reverie.

As unto the fire the back stick,
So the judge is to the trial
When forensic strife is kindled:
Feasive; slow to burn; in duty
To the front he keeps the firebrands—
Keeps the tindery, flaming lawyers.
But, of kindred stuff and nature,
Well aglow and sympathetic,
In their blaze and heat he revels.
Nay, not all their heat avoiding,
Oft he chars and stews and sputters,
Wishing he were in the hottest;
And when poor sticks and when crooked
Pitiful burn and smudge and sizzle,
And obscure and clog the burning
With their smoke, to blind the jury
And put out the ends of justice;
And when plaintiff and defendant
Are at length consumed to ashes,
And the jury to the embers
Rakes, and finds which was the straightest—
Then the back stick, tough and lasting,
Always glowing, never burning,
Has another set of lawyers
Put before him, sets them going,
And another "case" is opened;
And so burns and shines unceasing,
Human Law, thy fateful altar.
—The Green Bag.

A Dove Luncheon.

A well known society woman has developed a really new idea in the way of a "dove luncheon." It has long been declared by the lady's circle of friends that she closely resembles the portraits of Marie Antoinette, and taking this as a suggestion she entertained last week a dozen friends at what she called a Louis Seize luncheon. The hostess herself was dressed in a gown that faithfully copied one of the unfortunate queen's, and each of the guests had chosen some other famous woman of that period of famous women, whom she personated in costume and coiffure. The adorning of the table and the service of the luncheon was made as consonant as possible with the rest of the affair, and the topic chosen for conversation was the women of the French revolution.—New York Evening Sun.

Since the invention of smokeless powder the French military authorities are considering the expediency of abolishing brilliant colors, bright buttons, shining weapons, etc.

EVADED THE POLICE.

Murderer Jackson Gives the Authorities Much Trouble.

No more sensational murder has been committed for a long time than that in which Printer Charles E. Jackson figured as principal. It occurred late one night in a saloon on Sixth avenue, New York city, and the victim was Mamie Murphy, a beautiful but dissolute young woman, who had severed her relations with Jackson and declined to renew them. Upon her refusal he drew a knife, cut her throat and fled. Before those present regained their senses Jackson was out of sight and the girl was dead.

By daylight the police forces of New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City—more than 5,000 men—knew of the crime and were looking for the fugitive. But they didn't catch him. When Jackson slammed the door of the saloon he left no clew for the officers to follow up. They learned, indeed, that he made his way down town and borrowed some money from friendly compositors who at the time had no knowledge of the murder, but beyond that they could secure no information about his movements.

CHARLES E. JACKSON.

Jackson's real name is Charles E. Buchanan. While a resident of Toronto he slashed his wife's throat, but not fatally. Because of this deed he fled from Canada and assumed an alias. Until recently he wore a mustache, but at present his face is smooth. Here is the description sent out by the New York police:

Charles E. Buchanan, alias Charles E. Jackson, a Canadian, aged between 28 and 31 years; 5 feet 7 inches in height; stout build; dark brown hair; medium complexion; had smooth face when last seen; has very wide nostrils; wore dark coat and vest, striped trousers, reddish scarf, black derby hat; speaks with an English accent; is a drinking man; associates with fallen women. Buchanan is a compositor and generally works in newspaper offices. At the time of his flight he was a member of Typographical Union No. 6 of this city. In 1882 he was a member of Typographical Union No. 195 of Las Vegas, New Mexico. He was also a member of Toronto Typographical Union No. 91.

A MONUMENT TO REVOLUTION.

France Beginning a Series of Centennial Celebrations.

France is entering upon the centennial of the great events that marked her history during the last decade of the previous century. One of the most notable commemorations that has yet taken place occurred the other day at Toulon, when the president of the republic unveiled a monument in honor of the French revolution. The principal figure is that of republican France, standing on the prow of a ship, holding in one hand a tablet inscribed with the rights of man and of the citizen, and in the other the torch of civilization. At her feet are two seated figures, one representing force, the other justice. The entire design is in memory of the fete of the federation at the Field of Mars in 1790, and the combination of monument and fountain is said to be very effective.

THE MONUMENT AT TOULON.

The Wife of Her Uncle.

Mary Sausone, of Baltimore, is one of those who look upon marriage as a failure, and she has therefore begun suit to secure her freedom. She first met her husband, who is also her uncle, in May, 1887, and they went to Washington for the purpose of being married. Soon after this her husband deserted her. The laws of the District of Columbia do not prohibit such marriages, and the question to be determined is whether the union, though legitimate where the ceremony occurred, is valid in Maryland. Mrs. Sausone has one child. Her husband is now in Virginia.

A Timely Snake Story.

The season has now advanced far enough for snake stories to be in order. One of the first to gain currency is to the effect that the boys who attend the Howard public school at Johnsbury, N. J., found a den of serpents the other afternoon. It was a big hole in the ground, partly covered with a stone. They poked sticks into it and in ten minutes a large number of snakes came out. With sticks and stones they killed forty-seven black snakes, five pilots and fourteen garters. Two of the black snakes were five feet long.

Only Women at a Funeral.

The women of Milton, Fla., are just at present making it uncomfortable for the male residents of that town. Mrs. Mary Ann Henderson died the other day after being bed ridden for twenty-one years. At the funeral the only man present was the preacher, and the corpse was placed in the coffin and carried to the hearse by females, who also did the necessary work at the cemetery. Considering the criticism they have incurred the men now wish they had gone to the funeral in a body.

Recovered Her Umbrella.

Paula von der Lippe, of Westphalia, loved and thought she was loved in turn. But her wooer proved faithless and fled to America. Paula followed him, not to reclaim his fickle fancy, but to make him restore a much prized umbrella. She secured her cherished rain shedder and went back across the stormy ocean to her home. Equally vigorous measures on the part of other umbrella owners when despoiled would soon eliminate their theft from the list of crimes.

A Man with a Long Beard.

If Mr. Philip Hanson, of Corinth, Miss., lived among the Turks or Arabs he would doubtless receive honor and reverence. They regard a man with a big beard as worthy of homage, and Mr. Hanson meets the requirement to the fullest degree, as he is supposed to have the longest whiskers in the world. He is of unusual stature, but although nearly six and a half feet tall, when he is standing erect his beard reaches the ground. This remarkable growth is but fourteen years old. A German resident of Chicago a few years ago boasted of his sixty inches of beard, but Hanson goes him several better, having many threads in his hirsute appendage that measure over seventy inches.

Hunting for Treasure.

Treasure hunting has as great a fascination today as when Jason went searching for the golden fleece or men flocked to California in the "brave old times of '49." An expedition will shortly leave Valparaiso, Chili, for Cocos Island, in the Pacific, on which it is believed an enormous amount of treasure is buried. Two or three times expeditions have gone from Valparaiso on a similar errand, but all proved fruitless. That faith is still maintained in the existence of the coin is shown by the fact that about $10,000 has been obtained for this new experiment. The crew receive a certainty in the way of small wages, and are to get a share of the treasure if any shall be found.

"That Jimson is unbearable."
"There's something good about him."

"He reads my jokes."—Yankee Blade.

PUPILS ON THE FARM WHO PAY FOR THE PRIVILEGE OF WORKING.

Younger Sons of English Gentlemen Who Come to America to Learn How to Drive a Plow and a Bargain—Winding Up as Hotel Dishwashers.

In some of the northwestern cities like St. Paul, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, it is an every day sight to see a young Britisher land from the train, with one eyeglass screwed into his face (in order that he may not see more than he can comprehend, some one has been unkind enough to say), a corduroy suit of blouse and knickerbockers, bright yellow leather gaiters buttoned up to the knee, a fore and aft cap, two guns, that he may shoot all the buffalo he expects to find just outside the town, a dog and about 500 pounds of baggage. He has come to learn farming. He is a gentleman's son, accustomed to comparative luxury and ease all his life.

Arrangements have been made for him by some English firm, of whom there are a good many in this business, to do "chores" for his board, and to pay £100 down to "learn farming"—that is, to master the mysteries of harnessing a horse, to milk a cow, to drive a sulky plow, to drive a seeder, to drive a mower, to drive a harvester and, possibly, to drive a bargain. As soon as he has mastered the last accomplishment, he generally sees that he has been duped, leaves his teacher and strikes out for himself.

THEY WANT TO GO HOME.

The coarse food of the farmer's table and the rough society of his hired help, who get good wages, while he gets nothing, generally disgust him, however, long before he reaches the stage of education last mentioned, and the young man starts for the nearest town, hoping to find more congenial employment. He goes to the hotel, and by the time he has discovered that there is no demand for any class of unskilled labor, save on the farm, he is in debt to the landlord, and in a great many cases brings up in the hotel kitchen as a waiter or dishwasher, or even a stable boy.

One of the peculiar things about this class of young fellows is the longing all of them have to go home again and their evident inability to gratify that wish, although most of them receive sums of money from their friends in the old country at regular intervals. The fact seems to be that they are not wanted at home. Their parents seem glad, or at least willing, to have their boys undergo considerable hardship, with dangers to morals and health, rather than to have them meet the inevitable evils of idleness in England. For the prejudice against any form of trade or business, outside the professions, is strong there yet, and many an English gentleman would rather have his boy washing dishes in America than standing behind a counter in England. Of course it is not heralded from the housetops that dear Reginald is washing dishes in America; oh, no, he is "ranching it in the west."

"I remember the case of two young lads," said a Dakota lawyer, "fresh from a famous boys' college in England. What struck me particularly when first I saw them was their cheerfulness and their boots.

"Their boots were amazing. The boys were short for their ages, 15 and 16, but the boots would have reached half way above the knees of the tallest man in the settlement, and were big in the feet in proportion. Walking was difficult in them. The boys almost seemed to take one step up into the toes first, and then pull the rest of the boots along after them at the second stride. In answer to questions about the reason for such roominess, they replied that they had been led to believe that the cold was so intense in the northwest that it was customary for people to wear all the socks they had at the same time.

"'Boots' we christened the boys, indiscriminately.

"Then they produced their shoes from their trunks. Splendid shoes they were, but the heels were shod with great plates of iron, and the soles were full of brass pegs with protruding heads as big as peas. The shoes must have weighed five pounds each. 'Extra hob nailed,' the lads called them, and useful they would be no doubt on the stony, flinty English roads and fields, but on the soft loamy prairie lands of the west, where you could not find one stone to throw at a bird in a ten acre lot, they were about as retarding to locomotion as the suction boots of those 'artists' who walk on the ceiling.

"Well, they went out to the 'teacher' who had secured them and I lost sight of them for a while. One day I came across such a thin, sorry, disgusted little chap, sitting on the back steps of a hotel, that I barely recognized him as one of the rosy, smiling boys I had laughed at a few months before.

"'What's the matter, old man?' I said, 'what are you doing here?'

"'Making the beds and washing the dishes,' he replied sorrowfully. 'I'm "boots" now with a vengeance,' he added, with a flickering smile.

"'Didn't they treat you well?' I asked.

"'Oh, they did all they agreed to do,' he answered; 'but it was not what we expected, you know. I wish I had my hundred pounds back.'

"'Where's your brother, and what's he doing?'

"'Cooking for a lot of English fellows that have a camp out at the Forks.'

"'Has he, too, thrown over his teacher and his "comfortable home, with plain but substantial fare," as the circular said?' I asked.

"'Yes,' said the lad, 'I think he'd like to go back, though, but the farmer will not have him. We broke the contract and left him, and I suppose he can refuse to renew it. He has our money safe, do you see?'

"I saw, but what could I do?"—New York Tribune.

Charged with Robbing the Mails.

The people of Buffalo, N. Y., received a disagreeable surprise the other day when they learned that William W. Allen, superintendent of mails, had been placed under arrest, and that when he was taken into custody a number of stolen letters were found in his pockets. Allen was an old employe of the office, and prior to the exposure stood high in the estimation of those who knew him. He furnished bail in the sum of $4,000. His case will be considered by the next United States grand jury.

WILLIAM W. ALLEN.

For some time the postal authorities have been perplexed and annoyed by numerous complaints of rifling of the mails at Buffalo. It is now thought that they will be able to hunt down the other culprits and restore the office to the general standard of efficiency.

Small Wages of Sin.

Some one has figured out the total sum of money stolen by Black Bart, a noted western stage robber, during his nine years' career on the road. The conclusion arrived at is that the man's desperate method of making a living netted him less than $1,000 a year.

A SINGER'S UNTIMELY DEATH.

Killed in a Railway Accident at the Dawn of Her Career.

Telegraph Operator G. R. Kent sat in the Western Union office at Kansas City the other morning. The instrument before him ticked off its various messages, displaying in brief the world's daily history of joy, sorrow and labor. His fingers flew over the pages on which he recorded these bulletins of information so important to the recipients with trained and unfaltering speed. His attitude was attentive; his face impassive. He was simply a telegraph operator engaged in the usual transaction of his routine duties. Suddenly, however, his pen dropped and his look changed to one of astonishment and horror. This is the telegram that caused his hand to grow nerveless and brought tears to his eyes:

"Myrtle was killed in a railway accident at Staunton, Va., early this morning."

Mr. Kent called his chief, told him the news and went home to convey the sad intelligence to his wife. The Myrtle referred to by the dispatch was his sister-in-law, Myrtle Knox, a beautiful girl of 17 who, a few months ago, resigned her place as telegraph operator at the Midland hotel, in Kansas City, to take a position in Rice's "Pearl of Pekin" Comic Opera company.

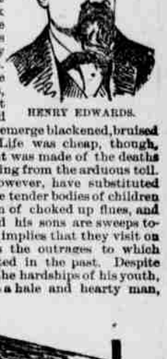
MISS MYRTLE KNOX.

The accident by which she lost her life occurred on the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. The train for Washington was descending a heavy grade, when the brake rod of the engine fell, and the air brake was rendered useless. The cars rushed into Staunton at a speed of eighty miles an hour. The sleeper in which was Miss Knox left the track and was thrown on its side. It caught fire, but the flames were extinguished by citizens. Miss Knox's injuries were so severe that she died a few moments after being taken from the ruins. Other members of the company escaped with life, but received such serious hurts that all dates were canceled and the troupe disbanded. The last letter written by Miss Knox was to a girl friend at Kansas City. In it was this terse bit of advice: "Whatever your inclinations may be, don't go on the stage."

A CHAMPION CHIMNEY SWEEP.

His Name Is Edwards, and He Has Had a Toilsome Life.

"Champion sweep of England." That title is the sole distinction that Henry Edwards, now a resident of Kansas City, has obtained as the result of threescore years of toil. When 8 years old he was bound to a master to serve an apprenticeship of seven years as a chimney sweep. His mother being destitute, and his father having abandoned them, the only resource left to secure the necessaries of life was labor of the severest sort. The work demanded of the sweeps fifty years ago was incredibly cruel in its details. The poor lads were sent up chimneys, often without clothing, and would invariably emerge blackened, bruised and bleeding. Life was cheap, though, and small account was made of the deaths frequently resulting from the arduous toil.



HENRY EDWARDS.

Later times, however, have substituted machinery for the tender bodies of children in the exploration of choked up flues, and that Edwards and his sons are sweeps today by no means implies that they visit on their apprentices the outrages to which they were subjected in the past. Despite his 70 years and the hardships of his youth, Edwards is still a hale and hearty man,

BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, MAY 16, 1890.

NOTICE.

The members of the Standing Committee of the Democratic party of the county of Columbia, will meet at the office of the Chairman on Tuesday the 27th day of May, inst, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of electing four persons as delegates to the State Convention which convenes at Scranton, July 2, 1890.

C. B. Est, Sec'y. Wm. Chrisman, Chairman.

Warren county is the home of Mr. Delamater. On Saturday last at the republican primary elections C. W. Stone captured the county, and secured the delegates to the state convention.

Ex-Mayor Richard Vaux has been nominated by the democratic convention of the Third district of Philadelphia, as a candidate for Congress to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel J. Randall. The special election will be held on May 20. There were a number of other candidates but all stepped out of the way for Mr. Vaux and he was unanimously nominated.

As yet there is no announcement of any candidate for representative on this side of the river. The name of Peter A. Evans of Montour township is being talked of, and his many friends are urging him to be a candidate. He is an intelligent man, and as he is a farmer he knows the needs of the farmers. No better selection could be made and if Mr. Evans consents to run he will get there. The people are getting tired of professional politicians.

State Senator.

C. Larue Munson Esq. of Lycoming, B. S. Collins Esq. of Sullivan and probably Dr. Hoffa of Mountour will be the candidates for the office of State Senator for this district from those counties. The names of Grant Herring and A. L. Fritz are used as probable contestants for the nomination in this county.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is continually proving its merit as a valuable medicine, by the many cures it is accomplishing. This positive merit is the secret of its wonderful and unparalleled success. All we ask of any one needing a good medicine is that Hood's Sarsaparilla be given a fair trial. We know that it is prepared with the greatest care from the best ingredients it is possible to obtain, that its Peculiar Combination, Proportion and Process do give it superior curative power, and that for all diseases or affections caused by impure blood or low state of the system, it is absolutely unequalled. It will cure, when in the power of medicine, Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Sores, Boils, Pimples, all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Indigestion, Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Complaints, etc.

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but possessing just those elements which the system needs and readily seizes, Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up in a perfectly natural way, all the weakened parts, acts upon the blood as a purifier and vitalizer, assists to healthy action the kidneys and liver.

"I have sold three times as much Hood's Sarsaparilla as of all others combined, in my 17 years in business." W. D. Melick, Sunbury, Penn.

"Seven years ago, my little boy was bitten by a spider. The poison entered his blood, and sores soon broke out about his body; they itched terribly and caused him intense suffering. Finally we tried Hood's Sarsaparilla, and he took one bottle and one-third of another, when the sores disappeared. He has not a sore spot on him now, and is perfectly cured." Wm. H. B. Ward, Downington, Penn.

"I have taken two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla for salt rheum and dyspepsia, with which I was troubled very much. After taking this medicine I am feeling as well as ever in my life. I consider and advertise to others that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier." G. W. Rose, Pottsville, Penn.

"I suffered a great while with dyspepsia. I was urged to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, and have taken two bottles. It has entirely cured me of dyspepsia, and a scrofulous affection has also entirely disappeared. I can hardly find words to express my high appreciation of Hood's Sarsaparilla." Allen H. Melholm, City Hotel, Lancaster, Penn.

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla and find that it accomplishes all that is claimed. I was troubled with a breaking out of the skin, commonly called 'hives.' Hood's Sarsaparilla gave me immediate relief. I can cheerfully recommend it to all those similarly troubled." Wm. Gallagher, Weighmaster 9th Ward Gas Works, Philadelphia, Penn.

"For three years I suffered with dyspepsia, growing so bad that I was at one time completely broken down in health. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla on trial, and seeing that it was doing me good, continued with it. After taking six bottles I gained strength and appetite and was restored to my former health." John E. Russell, Brookville, Penn.

The Farmers Alliance are agitating the subject of sending a man to Congress from this district, who is a thorough representative of their interests. It is not yet determined whether they will endeavor to urge a man who receives the support of one of the party conferences, or whether he shall be a man selected, and run upon a distinct issue.

The name of C. L. Sands of Mordansville is frequently mentioned as republican candidate for County Commissioner. His business as manufacturer of woolen yarn has brought him among all the people in the county, and he would make a good man to guard their interest as commissioner.

On Saturday last a number of ladies made a visit to Mrs. Jacob Evans on East street, and very agreeably surprised her. Great quantities of provisions were brought by the visitors, and a most enjoyable time was had. Mrs. Evans was deeply affected by this manifestation of friendship.

The Bloomsburg Car Company has been filling a large contract for cars for the Iron Car Company of New York, which latter company failed last week. The Bloomsburg Car Company are creditors to the amount of $20,000. A considerable amount of property at the shops here belonging to the Iron Car Co. has been levied on under a foreign attachment issued on behalf of the Bloomsburg Car Co. to protect themselves, just in time to prevent a New York party from doing the same thing. Our people expect to get most of their money out.

The following letters are held at Bloomsburg, Pa., post-office, and will be sent to the dead letter office, May 27, 1890.

Never had a preparation a more appropriate name than Ayer's Hair Vigor. When the capillary glands become enfeebled by disease, age, or neglect, this dressing imparts renewed life to the scalp, so that the hair assumes much of its youthful fullness and beauty.

The entertainment given in the Lutheran church last Thursday evening, entitled "Crowning of the May Queen," was well attended and highly commented on by those present. Two excellent pieces of music were rendered by Prof. Brook's Orchestra. The exercises were interspersed with select recitals. The piano used for the evening was from the music warerooms of J. Saltzer.

At the meeting held May 5 h of the Benton Agricultural Association for the election of officers. The following persons were chosen.

President Richard T. Smith; Vice President John W. Belles; Secretary H O. McHenry; Treasury H G. Colley; Librarian A. W. Wilkinson.

Directors Calvin Derr; Samuel Smith; Elliot Lemons; T. H. Butt; C. L. Belles. Fair will be held Oct. 1. 2. 3. 4.

Fullmer's Hotel at Eyersgrove was destroyed by fire last Friday afternoon at five o'clock. The fire was first discovered in the roof of the building, but had so far advanced that it could not be controlled. Attention was then given to removing the household goods. The greater portion of the goods were removed, but considerably damaged. The building was owned by Geo. Beagle and was a total loss—there being no insurance upon the building o contents.

A man named Joseph Gravel was arrested last week at Berwick for stealing a gold watch and chain, an overcoat, suit of clothes, hat, and seven dollars in money from John Karns, with whom he roomed at a boarding-house. He put the clothes on and went to Nanticoke and sold the watch for $15. Mr. Karns works nights at Jackson & Woodin's and discovered his loss next morning. A warrant was taken out, and he went to the station to take the cars for Northumberland, where he was informed Gravel had gone, but found Gravel on the train. On being arraigned in court on Monday morning Gravel pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to a year and two months in the peinitentiary.

MR EDITOR

I have been asked by many persons to allow my name to go before the people of this county as a candidate for Assembly. After due deliberation I have decided to gratify my numerous friends by complying with their request.

If the people of Columbia County feel assured that I am the proper man for the place I shall expect their votes and will be thankful for them, but if they think differently then I believe it to be not only their right but their duty, to vote for a candidate who they are satisfied has more merit and will represent them in the halls of legislation more satisfactorily than

Yours Respectfully

CHARLES M. BLAKER

Paul E. Wirt Esq. received a telegram on Tuesday announcing that a decision in his favor had been rendered in the United States Court at New York in the Sackett case. A suit was brought by Geo. Sacket of Brooklyn, against. H. M. Smith & Co. for infringement, in selling the Wirt fountain pen, Sackett claiming that Wirt's fountain pen was an infringement on his patent. The case has been pending for several years, and volumes of testimony have been taken, Mr. Wirt bearing the burden of the defense.

This gives him a clear field, and after so thorough and hard fought battle, it is scarcely probable that any one else will care to go over the same ground again. The Wirt patents have been sustained repeatedly, and they are now so firmly fixed that there can be no disupte as to infringements

On Wednesday morning of last week the application of residents of Millville asking for incorporation as a borough was laid before the Grand Jury. Witnesses on behalf of the applicants were heard all day, and Thursday was occupied in hearing witnesses for the opposition. On Friday a half day was devoted to argument by counsel. In the afternoon the Grand Jury reported in favor of a borough. The law requires a majority of the freeholders residing within the limits of any proposed borough, to sign the petition asking for one. In this case the petition set forth that there are 100 freeholders residing within the limits, and 76 of them signed the petition, making three-fourths, a large proportion. In the Benton application a few months ago, there was a strong doubt raised by the opposition as to whether a majority of the freeholders were in favor of a borough.

Nothing more will be done with the Millville borough matter until September court, and in the meantime exceptions may be filed.

The Twenty-First Annual Convention of the Columbia County Sabbath School Association will be held at New Columbia Union Church, Tuesday and Wednesday May 27th and 28th. The music will be under the direction of Prof. J. H. Kurzenknabe of Harrisburg. The opening services will be conducted by Rev. L. F. Baum, Presbyterian minister of the New Columbia Church, welcoming words by Rev. A. R. Glaze, Lutheran minister of the New Columbia Church, and response by President, H. R. Bower of Berwick. Each School in the county is entitled to two delegates and an additional delegate for every fifty scholars over one hundred. Entertainment will be provided for all (including horses,) from a distance. Free conveyances will leave the depot at Bloomsburg for New Columbia at 8:40 a. m., May 27th and returning from New Columbia at the close of the Convention. All wishing to avail themselves of this opportunity of a free ride should send their names to Miss Lizzie Wright, Buckhorn, not later than May 20th.

HAVE YOU SEEN IT?

If you have, I know you will come again, and if you have not, the next time you come to Bloomsburg, you should come down to the corner of 6th and Iron Sts. and call upon me at my new Office & Grain ware house. Don't expect to see a large elevator, for there is but one in the County, but we will show you a neat little warehouse, eighty feet long by thirty feet wide, where we can unload your grain etc, so quick that it will take your breath, and if you will give us the opportunity we can load them up again just as quick with fertilizers, seeds, salt, mill-feed, binder-twine, baled hay, plows etc. You will always find a very obliging young man at the ware house to wait upon you. He is a jolly fellow and when he talks to you about prices you are sure to laugh. Everybody come! Lots of room! The bargains you will get not only in buying, but in selling your produce, are sure to please you.

Bloomsburg May 10, 1890. At a special meeting of Bloomsburg Grange 522 P. of H., held May 5th 1890, to take action in refrence to the death of our late Brother, J. G. Quick, the following committee was appointed to prepare resolutions commemorative of our deceased Brother; Said committee respectfully submit the following:—

WHEREAS: But yesterday the friend whose death saddens our hearts and makes this an occasion of mourning, was with us; he has now crossed the dark river. Tomorrow will come our turn to surrender to the destroyer, when others will drape this Hall in memory of us, and place our names on the death-roll of the Grange. Our departed Brother was a member of the Order from its infancy, a Past-Master, and filled the office of Secretary for a number of years. Therefore it is eminently proper that we should give expression to our great sorrow and manifest our fraternal sympathies for those nearest and dearest to him. Therefore:

Resolved: That whilst we deplore the loss sustained by his family, our order and the community, our sorrow is softened with the hope that to him it was but the transition to a higher and better life.

Resolved: That we extend to our bereaved sisters the widow and daughter of our late Brother, our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved: That as a token of our respect and esteem for our deceased Brother our Hall be draped in mourning for ninety days.

Resolved: That at our regular meeting on May 17th, a portion of the time be devoted to memorial services.

Resolved: That these resolutions be entered on our minutes, a copy furnished the Farmers' Friend and each of the papers of Bloomsburg for publication.

Normal School Notes.

The Normal school now boasts of a regularly organized base ball team The boys have succeeded in raising about $40, with which to purchase suits. These have been purchased, and "the boys" look well. On Friday, May 9th, they "crossed bats" with the Berwick team at Berwick. The score stood 17 to 4 in favor of Normal. Thus they have opened the season, and are ready for other engagements. The team is made up of the following students.

I. G. Miller c, John Harman c. f, Morris Sloan s. s, John O'Donnell 2. b, W. S. Miller p, J. R. Miller r. f, Wm. Shultz l. f, Jos. Gallagher 1. b, Wm. Wagner 3. b

The Electric clock recently put in the building, and which has been to the factory for certain needed changes and repairs came to hand again Saturday May 10th. It is now doing duty and works admirably. Any of the town people who have not yet seen or had explained the workings of this system of Electric bells, will be well repaid by calling "on the hill". All of the various daily and night programme for all the buildings are rung by the hands of the clock. You want to see it.

The Misses Bynon and Wylie, class of '88, and Miss Stager, class of '89 spent Sunday with their Normal friends. Come again ladies.

The examinations of the Senior and Junior classes, by the State Department, have been fixed for June 17th.

The Old, Old Story.

A little cough; a feeling ill;
A headache oft; a daily chill;
A slower walk; a quickened breath;
A frequent talk of coming death.
No strength to rise from day to day;
From loving eyes he fades away.
Now lifts no more the weary head,
The struggle's o'er; the man is dead.

Such is the fatal progress of consumption. How often is repeated the old, old story. Yet not half so often as it was before the knowledge came to mankind that there was a discovery in medical science by which the dread disease could be arrested in its early stages and the patient restored to health. This wonderful remedy, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Thousands of cures follow the use of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. 50 cents.

Trout Dinner.

J. B. McHenry, the well known and popular landlord of the McHenry house at Benton, will open to the public one of the rarest feasts of the year, on Saturday, May 24. A trout dinner will be served, and there will be a great abundance for all. Don't miss it. Everybody is invited.

Council Proceedings.

Regular meeting of the Council was held in the Council Room of the Town Hall, Wednesday May 8th. President and all the Members present.

M S. Williams was granted permission to make repairs of gutter in front of his residence on Iron street, at his own expense, town to furnish pipe.

Communication was received from Dr. J. J. Brown declining to serve as member of Sanitary Committee.

A Spring Medicine.

The druggists claim that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick-headache, discovered by Dr. Silas Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50 cents a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

WANAMAKER'S.

PHILADELPHIA, Monday, May 12, 1890.

Only the finest cotton carefully worked gets into the lovely Brandenburgs. Lumpy, knotty threads might do in Oriental imitations (it is apt to be the Oriental way to have them) but a smooth, perfect surface is one of the chiefest Brandenburg graces. On such a cotton the art printer can do his daintiest work. Not even the rarest Sateens outdo the Brandenburgs in beauty of printing. Hardly the stuff you expect to get at 20c a yard!

A large number of exquisite new patterns and colorings have been recently added; among them black figures on white grounds for the first time.

Good serviceable Robe patterns of the French Wool Dress Goods at about half.

8-yard lengths $2.00
10-yard lengths $2.50

They have a piece of the Remnant counter. Such a company of little-priced, big-worth stuffs as you rarely see.

In Women's Summer Footwear Oxfords and low cuts have the call—blacks or colors. Of course we set the pace in prices; but that's not the most important part. Fit comes first. In medium grades as well as in the finest we fit you perfectly. In workmanship and style we take it that all these goods show the perfection of shoemaking.

Take two of the most popular prices—$3 and $5: more than forty styles for you to pick from, and we think there's at least a dollar more of value in every pair of them than you'll find in like grades out-side. All the betwixt and below styles just as plentiful

Two High shoes, button and lace. Mahogany goat. $3 a pair, true value $4. All sizes and widths.

Tennis, shoes $1 to $5.

Each day now adds something new and shapely for Men, Women and Children.

As good value as we ever had in Cream Huck Towels, Large size—22 x 24 inches—good finish, and the price 15c ($1.80 a dozen). They'd be snapping quick value at 20c.

Handsome snow bleach Huck Towels, damask borders, 25c each.

Sorts and sorts at just as winning prices.

AN ESTIMATE OF THE COST.

The Expense Involved in Securing Desirable Highways.

An interesting article on country road improvement is published in The Wheel, from the pen of "Viator," which cannot fail to interest 'cyclers and farmers who are carrying on a vigorous campaign for better roads. The most salient points of "Viator's" argument are given below:

The American mind is nothing if not practical. The subject of road improvements has gained so firm a hold on the attention of our people that it is simply now a question of time, economic method and financial ability when the roads of the country at large will be macadamized; in other words, our ordinary disgraceful, wasteful, dirt roads will have become "foundation roads." To promote "a consummation devoutly to be wished," it is only necessary now to demonstrate the practicability of the reform, and to show that it is within the financial ability of the average township to have, without delay, first class roads to an extent commensurate with their necessities.

It has been settled by long, patient, costly and scientific experiment that the motive power of a horse on a "foundation" broken stone road is exactly double that of the same animal on an earth road in very good condition. The experiments of Morin in 1838-41 have established that beyond question. The saving in time is very much greater. The writer has himself recently seen a pair of ordinary horses trotting at the rate of six miles per hour over a macadam road, hauling a wagon containing 7,000 pounds (more than three gross tons) of crushed stone on a level grade.

How, then, is it practicable to procure such roads—at least in the majority of our older states?

We will suppose that the area of the average township is equal to three miles square, and that to put in touch with the great country road, and especially with markets and railroad stations, it is necessary to give it two intersecting "foundation" roads, making in all twelve square miles of improved road. Of course the existing roads would be utilized, but on this principle it may be assumed that these roads can be completed for $4,000 per mile, and kept in repair for 5 per cent. annually of their first cost. This would give $48,000 as the sum needed for which to issue bonds. The yearly charge would then be 5 per cent. interest on $48,000—$2,400; sinking fund, 1 per cent. annually, for thirty years, $480; total, $2,880. The repairs are not here included in the annual cost, because they are needed in any event, but under the present systems are completely wasted.

The outcome of the plan here indicated would be that as the sinking fund would liquidate the bonds at maturity the township at the end of thirty years would have at least twelve miles of thoroughly good road paid for, and which could be always maintained at a less cost than is now expended on roads that are sometimes well nigh impassable. But this is an infinitesimal part of the benefit arising from the improvement. In many cases the only reason why city business men do not reside in some choice localities is that they cannot have the pleasure of driving over good roads. Their settlement in any rural district at once causes the value of property to increase. Increase of population brings customers to the farmers' doors for milk, butter, eggs, fruit and vegetables. It establishes churches, schools, postoffices, libraries, and, finally, villages. So that in the pro forma case of twelve miles under consideration the certainty would be that before the maturity of the thirty year bonds at least double the mileage would be demanded and built.

The estimated price of $4,000 per mile here given is intended to apply to six inch macadam roads based on the experience of building in New Jersey. But this figure is meant for roads that can be constructed by machinery. The demand for such roads has developed the fact that they may be so built by bringing together machinery that hitherto has been used separately and not to the greatest advantage. It is now seen that traction engines may be used in conjunction with automatic stone spreading machines and steam rollers in one continuous train, so as to actually build and perfect a mile of macadam road in from three days to a week, according to the distance over which the material has to be hauled.

A construction train would consist of first, a seven ton traction engine in the lead as hauler; next, ten to twenty stone spreading wagons, containing twenty to forty tons crushed stone, according to the amount of motive power employed; third, a fifteen ton steam roller, used partly as a pusher, which thoroughly compacts the stone just spread by the machines ahead of it.

Col. Pope quotes Professor Jenks as authority for the statement that "the Illinois roads cost $15,846,000 in extra hauling, and reduce the value of farms at a distance from railway depots by $160,000,000. If Illinois spent $350,000,000 on good roads, the total interest on this sum would still leave enough of the sum now spent on hauling to build a new state capitol every year. Good roads would save the state its state taxes every year.

Waking Up to the Situation.

A bill prepared by B. Howard Haman, an able lawyer of the state of Maryland, is to be laid before the state's legislature at an early day. It provides for the appointment of a state road and bridge engineer at a salary of $3,000 a year and $2,000 for expenses, who is to make a report to the legislature of the condition of the roads and make recommendations as to improvements. He is to have a general supervision of the roads, and the commissioners of the several counties are required to consult with him before making any repairs or improvements costing over $100, which shall be made by contract on plans and specifications furnished by the state engineer.

The legislature of Pennsylvania has formed a commission to inquire into the condition of the state's roads and to suggest means for their improvement.

Food Adulteration.

The question of Food Adulteration is now occupying public attention more than ever before, and organizations are being formed in almost every state to prevent the sale of adulterated food or drink. The following letter voluntarily given, speaks volumes for the purity of Speer's Port Grape Wine;

N. Y., June 3, 1884.

MR. ALFRED SPEER, Passaic, N. J.

Dear Sir:—The result of my investigation of your Wines convinces me that theyare perfectly pure and free from foreign or deleterious substances. The best I have ever tasted, and is all that can be desired in pure Port wine. The Unfermented is especially nourishing, and where the action of alcohol is not required it is well adapted for invalids. I speak as a physician. Your Pedro Brandy fills a want long felt in the profession for pure brandy can only be obtained with great difficulty.

The Recent Elections.

It is common for the successful party to meet severe party chills during the first year or two of a new national administration; but the elections this year, especially in the President's own State and throughout the West generally, are nearly uniformly and so overwhelmingly adverse to the party of power as to express deep-seated and wide-spread revolt against party authority.

Especially has the political revolution been sweeping in Indina, the home of the President. His own home city elected its first Democratic ticket for nearly a quarter of a century and by a large majority, and this week such Republican strongholds as Crawfordsville, Lafayette, Lebanon, Noblesville, Vincennes and Wabash have given decided Democratic victories, and some of them for the first time in their history.

To these disasters must be added the recent defeat of the administration party by 10,000 in Chicago; its defeat by 2,000 or more in St. Paul, where Harrison had a majority of thousands for President. When this startling political record is supplemented by the loss, for the first time in many years, of the majority of the election districts of New York outside of the cities, and the total loss of Rhode Island, including State officers and Legislature, it would be idle to assume that these defeats, so general and so decisive, are the mere ebullitions of the personal disappointments which ever after attend new party authority.

These popular expressions are pointed admonitions to the President, to his Cabinet and to his majority party in both branches of Congress. They have a meaning and a distant meaning and he who runs may read the truth they declare. They mean that revolutionary government ended with the necessities of war years ago, and that no party can return to it without annihilation; they mean that war taxes in time of peace, for the benefit of select classes, will be overwhelmingly resented by the masses, and they mean that national profligacy must give way to honest government. Such are the plain, emphatic lessons of the recent elections; will they be headed in Washington? If not, be prepared to battle in desperation to save even Pennsylvania to the party in November next.—Times.

In The Spring Months

Nature should be assisted when the system is changing from the full habit of the winter months to the lighter diet of the warm season. Nothing does this as well as S. S. S. It stimulates the sluggish blood and rids the system of heaviness and the feeling of langnor. If there is poison in the blood, it generally shows itself in the spring, and this is the season to help nature to drive it out and be cured.

Don't Pay.

A lecture that had forr several minutes harranged his audience on the beauties of politeness, was interrupted by a man who arose and said:

"That's all very well, cap—mighty fine talkin', all that, but in this town politeness don't pay."

"Your are mistaken sir," the lecturer answered, "politeness pays in any and all towns."

"No you are wrong," the interrupter persisted, "it don't pay here. I'll tell you why. For some time I have been eating at a lunch counter 'round yonder, and I noticed that every man sat up to the counter with his hat on, and as I wasn't brought up that way, I concluded to take my hat off, and I did so."

"Well, but did any one object?" the lecturer asked.

"Oh, no, there was no objection, but you see, some fellow stole my hat."—Arkansaw Traveler.

One day, as a Sixty avenue barber shop had but one empty chair, a man wearing a very big hat and walking with a great deal of swagger, entered, hung his hat on a peg, and then drawing a revolver he turned to the idle man and said:

"I want a shave—just a common shave. I want no talk. Don't ask me if I want a hair cut or a shampoo. Don't speak of the weather or politics. If you speak to me I'll shoot."

He took the chair, held the revolver across his legs, and was shaved with promptness and dispatch. When he got up he returned the shooter to his hip pocket, put on his hat, and after a broad chuckle he said to the cashier:

"That's the way to keep a barber quiet. He didn't utter a word."

"No, sir—he couldn't."

"Could't?"

"No, sir; he's deaf and dumb."—New York Sun.
